If an opponent is unable to continue within the standard 5-second count administered by the head referee and corners judges, the contest will be declared a knockout with the winner receiving 1 point and the match. If no points are scored during the match, the judges may award the match to an opponent based on "spirit" or technical excellence that is demonstrated by one of the competitors. A competitor who has scored at least ½ point at the end of the match may be declared the winner.

Judging

The judging staff will consist of a head Referee and four (4) corner judges located in the fighting area. There will be a timekeeper and a scorekeeper. The Head Referee is the supreme arbitrator of any and all questions pertaining to the interpretation of the rules or conflicts that may arise during the competition.
